OKAY.FAIR.2.0.1.22.Version(Qt, PyQt, TK)diazo.jar(java-1.5.0-i586-1.jar)diazo-sakura.jar(java-1.5.0-i586-1.jar) invention relates to a method for forming a web having a plurality of aligned discrete layer of material layers on a backing layer which method has a means for transversely stretching the web to cause the discrete layer of material layers to be spaced apart one from the other with a selected desirable configuration in its widthwise, lengthwise and transverse direction. The web is used as a carrier for a label to be adhered to the backing material, the label being adhered to the backing material and the backing material having a side which is capable of being exposed to a surface for receiving the label to be adhered thereto. The web having the plurality of layers is attached to a side surface of the backing material for allowing the attachment of the label to the backing material to be exposed on that surface of the backing material. This invention relates to the field of mat formation wherein a backing material is coated on one side with a suitable adhesive and the product is then bonded on the opposite side to a flexible carrier, such as a web. The web, after being formed, is then placed in the reticulated molds and the remaining components of the mat are applied to the backing material. The entire assembly is then placed in a steam chamber to cure the adhesive and cause the backing material to expand. In the prior art processes, the web is attached to the backing material and to the final product and the web must then be removed from the backing material in order to apply the labels to the backing material or to send the backing material to a laminating machine. After the labels are applied
